D. F. DAVIS SUCCESSFUL.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence D. F. Davis the popular druggist has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. in making special half price introductory offer on the regular fifty cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that D. F. Davis is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

So great is the demand for this specific that D. F. Davis has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once.

DORANDO'S RISE IN ATHLETICS.
Began Running Five Years Ago Encouraged By His Brother's Process—Career As He Tells It.

Dorando Pietri, the Marathon runner, says he started running five years ago in his native town, Carpi, Italy.
He is now 23. His brother Ulpiano, now 26, was the champion distance runner of a Carpi club and through him Dorando got the idea of becoming a runner. Through Ulpiano, as interpreter, Dorando tells the following concerning his career: "Three years ago the federazione atletica Italiana was formed. It corresponds to the amateur athletic union of this country and England and has done much to advance athletic competition. When it came to picking the men who should represent Italy in the Olympic games competitions were held in six sections. I won the Marathon race in our section, and subsequently at Rome defeated the champions of the other five sections and so won the championship of Italy.

"Following this success I naturally had high hopes of winning the big Olympic race at London against the best runners of the world. That event is a matter of history, and while I cannot complain at the victory of Hayes, I certainly feel as if I could have finished. I suppose I went a little out of my head when I entered the stadium at London for ahead of anybody else.
I thought I had finished, and with this realization I experienced the 'let down' which has come to many other athletes after hard exertion. If I had been left alone I believe I could have made my way to the finishing line. Having turned professional, I cannot compete again in the Olympic marathon, but I have strong hopes that my youngest brother, Armando, will capture the coveted honors at the next meeting at Greece. He will be 19 by that time, and as he has already shown great class, I am sure he will do well. He is not particularly fast, but has unlimited endurance and easily is able to go the full distance.
Part of the profits of my present tour will be devoted to preparing him for the Athens event, and the experience I have had in this country and in England will be valuable to him.

"I won quite a number of medals in Italy, some of which I never received, and as there was nothing more for me in the amateur line, I accepted the offer for a tour in this country. Reports as to my relying chiefly on wine in my training are exaggerated. I train mostly on meat and drink a fair amount of coffee. My brother was giving me some coffee out of a bottle and someone asked him if it was Chianti and he jokingly replied 'Yes.' That is where the wine story came from."

SEEDING TO CLOVER.

This Crop Is One of the Most Valuable and Should Be Cared for.

One of the most important, crops raised on the farm, is the clover crop. It serves a double purpose. It furnishes an abundant source of feed for the animals kept on the farm, and is relished by all from the horse to the chicken, and at the same time the roots permeate the soil, furturing it in better physical condition than before, and gathering the elements from down deep in the ground, as well as the nitrogen from the atmosphere, making them available for the subsequent crops which follow in the regular rotation.

The first essential is good seed. Without good seed no manner of after treatment can make good crop of clover; therefore, if it is a matter of first importance to select only such seed as is best adapted to the locality in which one lives, and then testing the same in order to know what percentage of the seed can be depended upon to germinate, says the Michigan Farmer. In selecting seed from different localities, that grown near where it is to be sown will be much harder and give better results than that grown very much farther south. Seed grown north of the locality where it is to be sown will also do better than that grown very far south.

The old-fashioned method of throwing the seed on the surface and trusting to the subsequent freezing and thawing, and the rains to cover the seed, will not work as well as when the seed is sown and covered with a layer of soil.
The seed should be sown in a furrow of vegetable mold, which encourages a rapid root growth as soon as the seed begins to grow and secures a foothold.
This method can only be trusted on loamy soils, that are fertile, and inclined to be porous in the spring of the year.

On gravelly and sandy loams, when seeding with winter wheat or rye, it is by far safer to sow the seed on the surface, and then go over with a spike tooth harrow, and stir the ground well. One can follow with a roller to make the seed, after which it will hold the moisture (an important essential) better than to leave it loose. If the surface of the ground is not well supplied with compost, a moderate amount of commercial fertilizer that is rich in nitrogen, to start root growth, will help very materially. We would put the fertilizer on the ground before the harrow is started. We have obtained excellent results by applying a light coat of compost made of equal parts of stable manure and swamp muck. The compost can be applied in the fall or during the winter and early spring. The beneficial effects of this application will be noticed for two or three years. It works well on hard clay knolls, where much difficulty is experienced in getting a catch of clover.

We are aware that this method of seeding is more expensive in point of labor, than the old sloped plant too often followed, but it insures a good catch, and increases the subsequent yield of clover. The amount of good seed required per acre is around four quarts on loamy soils, and five quarts on gravelly and sandy soils. As to time of sowing, it is best to sow during the latter part of March or first of April, if it is to be sown and left for the rains to cover the seed. When one is going to harrow the ground to cover seed it is always best to wait until the ground is settled and in fine condition for working. When sown with winter wheat the working loosens the soil, lets the air in, and benefits the wheat by encouraging an early growth more than enough to repay the labor of harrowing. When clover is sown with spring crops, it can be thrown on the surface while the land is loose from being prepared for the grain crop, soon after the grain is sown, and worked in with a light spike tooth harrow.
